ABOUT ME

As a Front-End Developer, I work well with others and enjoy making websites that are easy to use. I am good at solving problems and finding new ways to handle coding tasks. I explain tech things in a way everyone can understand, which helps when working with clients or team members who aren't tech-savvy. I quickly adapt to new situations and am always ready to learn more. I am careful and make sure my work is done well, paying attention to the small details that make a big difference.
